

How to Choose a Vedic Astrology Tutor

Choosing a tutor to assist you in your Vedic astrology studies is an important decision. Selecting a tutor who is right for you and provides a clear outline of their services is an integral part of the tutoring process. While using this form is not required to select a tutor, it can help guide you in the criteria you might need to select a tutor who is appropriate for you.

Tutor's name _____

Address _____

Phone _____ Email _____

Best time to contact _____ Recommended by _____

Background and Experience

Number of years practicing Vedic astrology? _____

Number of clients consulted? _____

Other experience instructing or informing others about Vedic astrology (conferences, books, articles, lecturing engagements, etc.)

Education (Degree, Certifications, special trade designations and awards) _____

References _____

References _____

Logistics

How will the sessions be conducted (in person, email, telephone, online, other?)

Length of sessions? _____

How many sessions might be required to adequately prepare for an ACVA certification?

How many days per week/month? _____

Policy about cancelled sessions/no- shows? _____

Communication

Will tutor commit to regular contact with you ? _____

Will tutor agree to contact you at a specific time of day or week? _____

Is tutor available for phone calls or emails? _____

Costs

Hourly rate _____ Other costs? _____

When is payment due? _____

How is payment preferred (check, credit card, etc.) _____

Flexibility

Okay to change day, time, length, number of sessions, as needed? _____

Notes & General impressions

NOTE: The purpose of tutoring is to help advance your studies as a learner of Vedic astrology. Do you understand that ACVA does not provide course credit for tutoring hours?